Information fields for the tab is added, which contains the "Tab title" displayed in the frontend, the option of having the tab active when loading the page and the option to enable a fading animation to the tab, when transitioning between the tabs/pills. At the bottom you can click to add more tabs/pills (img 11.1.6).

The screenshot shows a configuration interface with four tabs: 'General' (highlighted with a red box), 'Appearance', 'Access', and 'Relations'. The 'Content Element' section includes 'Type' (Fluid Content) and 'Column' (Main Content). The 'Header (Not visible in frontend)' section has an empty text field. The 'Fluid Content type' section shows 'Tabs/pills with content elements'. The 'Plugin Options' section has 'Display' and 'Tabs' (highlighted with a red box) sub-tabs. Under 'Tabs', there is a 'Toggle all' button and a list of tabs. The first tab is named 'First tab' (with a red arrow pointing to the text field and the annotation 'Add name of the tab/pill'). Below the tab list, there are two checkboxes: 'Active?' (with a red arrow pointing to the checkbox and the annotation 'Check to make the tab/pill active when page is loaded') and 'Enable fading effect' (with a red arrow pointing to the checkbox and the annotation 'Check to make transition between tab/pill, with a fade effect'). At the bottom, there is an 'Add new:' button with a plus icon and the word 'Tab' (with a red arrow pointing to the button and the annotation 'Click here to add new tab/pill').

Each tab/pill has a field set of information, and it is possible to toggle all tab/pills field sets to close/expand them. On the right, each tab/pills has an icon for dragging and dropping the tabs/pills in order and a trash can to remove them. Please note that if you are re-arranging the order, after putting content in the tabs/pills, save in between each move (img 11.1.7).
